

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0049] A collapsible container stored and shipped in a substantially planar configuration and expanded into the form of a flower pot or flower pot cover. The collapsible container includes a plurality of rigid segments and a connecting member for connecting the rigid segments such that the rigid segments define a sidewall and such that the rigid segments are movable between an expanded position wherein the rigid segments cooperate with one another to form an object receiving space and to provide the sidewall with a unitary appearance and a collapsed position wherein the sidewall is substantially flattened.